

Our Heave Day Prayer

Heavenly Father,

As we gather today in Your presence, we recognize You as the ELOHIM of our journeys, the One who has chastised us and led us through trials, just as You led Your people Israel into a land flowing with milk and honey. We acknowledge that just as You brought our forefathers out of Egypt, You have guided us through the wilderness of injustice and carried us toward the promise of return to our land, a land flowing with milk and honey.

YAH, we thank You for the inheritance of freedom and the opportunities You have provided, recognizing that despite the hardships, Your grace has sustained us. We bring to You our firstfruits—the achievements of our hands and hearts, born from the soil of struggle and resilience.

We stand before You today, grateful for the sacrifices of our ancestors, those who, like a Syrian perishing in a foreign land, rose from oppression to establish a legacy of strength and perseverance. As they cried out to You in their affliction, You heard their voice and saw their suffering. Deliver us as You delivered them, with a mighty hand and an outstretched arm.

As we bring our offerings to You, help us to remember those whom labour for you, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow among us. May we share the bounty of Your blessings with all in our community, ensuring that no one is left wanting.

Teach us to rejoice in every good thing You have given to our households, to our communities, and to those that obey your voice. Instill in us a spirit of unity and charity, that we may fulfill Your commandments to love our neighbors and to act justly.

YAH, look down from Your holy habitation, from heaven, and bless us. Continue to mold us into a people high in praise, name, and honor—a people who proclaim, your statutes, laws, commandments and judgments, set apart to serve and glorify You. As we commit to walking in Your ways and keeping Your statutes, may we hear Your voice more clearly and follow You more nearly.

We declare, O YAH, that You are our ELOHIM, and we are Your people, chosen to proclaim Your excellence. May we embody the richness of Your love and the power of Your transformative grace.

In Your divine presence, we, Your children of the diaspora, gather with hearts full of gratitude and eyes lifted to the heavens. You are the ELOHIM of our weary years, the ELOHIM of our silent tears, who has brought us thus far along the way. In every land and place Your hand has kept us, sustained us, and given us grace.

YAH, we are a people humbled by our journey, dispersed yet undivided in our hope for the return of our Savior, Yeshua HaMaschiach. We thank You profoundly for not forsaking us in our moments of despair, for in our captivity, You have been a pillar of fire by night and a cloud by day, guiding us toward redemption.

As Your people Israel once wept by the rivers of Babylon, we too have felt the pain of alienation and longing for home. Yet in this longing, we have seen Your mighty works. You have not destroyed us, O

YAH, but have preserved us, refined us through the trials of our captivity, and strengthened us by Your righteous right hand.

We bring to You our first fruits, the manifestations of our perseverance and Your blessings amidst the trials and tribulations. With these offerings, we celebrate the resilience You have instilled in us. Help us to remain faithful stewards of the legacy of faith handed down through Your holy scriptures and generations of them that love you, sharing with those who are still seeking their way back to You.

O' YAH, Elohim of our fathers and our Elohim, we thank You for giving us what we need spiritually to grow into Your likeness;

giving us what we need emotionally to walk in Your ways;

for giving us what we need mentally to be conscious of You and Your Word at all times;

giving us what we need financially so that we had sufficiently for ourselves and to bless others;

giving us what we need physically to serve You faithfully and glorify You in all we do.

Instill in us a spirit of unity and charity, that we may uphold and uplift those whom labor for you, the stranger, the fatherless, and the widow among us. Let us not forget to share the bounty You have provided, ensuring that our communities reflect Your love and justice.

O YAH, as we anticipate the glorious return of HaMaschiach, renew our strength and resolve. May we live each day with the joy of Your salvation and the assurance of Your promises. Look upon us from Your holy habitation, from heaven, bless us, and expand our territories. Let Your face shine upon us, Your peculiar people, as we endeavor to walk in Your ways, keep Your commandments, and listen to Your voice.

You have avouched us to be Your own, to be a people high above all in praise, name, and honor—a holy nation unto You. Let this identity be the cornerstone of our lives as we live in the expectancy of your glorious return.

We declare Your sovereignty and submit to Your divine will, trusting that You who have begun a good work in us will carry it on to completion until the day of Yeshua.

In the most precious name of Yeshua, we pray,

Amen.
